Abstract: In 2020, all the poor counties in China will be taken off, and the absolute poverty at the same time begin to move toward the goal of building a new development pattern. In the next stage, we must first consolidate the achievements of poverty alleviation, then do a good job in agriculture and farmers, strengthen innovation-driven development, promote high-quality development, and ensure national food security, We will complete the effective transition from poverty alleviation to rural revitalization. This paper focuses on the way and path of poverty alleviation and rural revitalization work, and makes suggestions and suggestions for stable poverty alleviation and good rural revitalization, and makes a contribution to the goal of consolidating the achievements of product promotion, comprehensively promoting rural revitalization and realizing common prosperity.

Keywords: Poverty alleviation; Stable poverty alleviation; Rural revitalization; Key path

Poverty alleviation is the premise of rural revitalization, which is a qualitative leap in poverty alleviation. The effective connection between poverty alleviation and rural revitalization is a strategic deployment of poverty alleviation and rural revitalization in China, and it is also a key work section during the 14th Five-Year Plan period. It is of great significance to effectively link poverty alleviation with rural revitalization, to promote agricultural and rural modernization, to move toward the second centenary goal of building China into a great modern socialist country in all respects, and to realize the Chinese dream of national rejuvenation.<sup>[1]</sup>

1. From point to line —— gathers many talents

One of the keys to consolidating poverty alleviation and promoting rural revitalization is to have a number of reliable talents. We will make good use of talents, play an important role in consolidating poverty alleviation work, and combine the strength of the people to inject strong impetus into the comprehensive revitalization of rural areas.

1.1 Establish a team of high-quality talents

All regions should extensively absorb talents and experts, and give full play to their professional and experiential advantages. According to the local situation, able to carry out work according to local conditions, able to build channels and provide technical support to solve the problems of industrial development path; able to help farmers master advanced skills, able to provide theoretical knowledge and guidance. We should attach importance to education and training of talents, strengthen the construction of agriculture-related majors in various colleges and universities, improve their professional level, encourage and guide students to find jobs at the grass-roots level, and pay close attention to agricultural and rural development.

1.2 We will continue to strengthen the ranks of cadres

Rural grassroots cadres are the direct leaders, organizers and practitioners of the consolidation of poverty alleviation and rural revitalization. They have the ability to solve practical problems in rural areas and play a key role in the effectiveness of their work. We should constantly strengthen the construction of grass-roots teams, and pay attention to giving full play to their political advantages and organizational advantages. At the same time, actively carry out the "silver age action", give full play to the waste heat of retired cadres. The knowledge, experience and wisdom of "Yinling elderly" are important resources for the Party to govern and rejuvenate the country, and also an effective force to effectively connect poverty alleviation with rural revitalization. They "guide" young cadres in their work, and at the same time promote the enthusiasm of the masses to carry out work with rich experience and influence.

1.3 Fully mobilizing the enthusiasm of the masses

We should fully mobilize the enthusiasm and participation of the masses, stimulate their enthusiasm and creativity, uphold the dominant position of farmers, and give full play to their advantages of the masses and unity. We should also strengthen the technology training, ability improvement and quality improvement of farmers, and cultivate a new type of professional farmers. Truly rely on farmers, serve farmers, benefit farmers, and jointly promote rural revitalization.

2. From line to surface —— seize the opportunity and broaden the development path

2.1 Experts and talents should grasp the plan and give full play to their professional advantages

To carry out investigation and research at the grass-roots level, according to the development direction of the local actual situation. We should focus on local historical and cultural characteristics and advantages in geographical resources, combine them with tourism, live streaming of goods, network platforms and big data, make full use of local resources to promote the development of primary, secondary and tertiary industries in local villages, realize industrial diversification, and drive rural revitalization through industrial revitalization. At the same time, to boost the development of rural informatization, strengthen the digital governance capacity, and improve the information technology system, which is also one of the important conditions for the realization of agricultural and rural modernization.

2.2 Grassroots organizations to grasp the implementation, give full play to the advantages of party building

Strengthen the coordination of multiple departments to jointly carry out the connection between poverty alleviation and rural revitalization; deepen policy publicity, understand the ideological work of the masses, and implement various work. Divide the village area into unit grid, and each party member connects the corresponding quantity unit grid in proportion to "mentoring" and manage, improve the effectiveness and timeliness; organize the construction of beautiful countryside, optimize and improve the living environment, continuously promote green development, promote ecological civilization and development, and meet people's increasingly beautiful spiritual needs.

2.3 Retired personnel grasp the details, give play to the experience advantage

The effective experience and methods of poverty alleviation should be grafted into the rural revitalization, and the work experience should be taught to play a supervisory role. Writers and artists and entrepreneurs use their own specialties and fields to help farmers in agriculture, production, trade fairs, tourism, publicity, planning and other aspects. We should work with the local elderly to do a good job in cultural inheritance and promote a good atmosphere, unity and progress in the countryside.

2.4 Farmer masses grasp production, give play to create advantages

Carry forward the practical spirit and enthusiasm, study hard, carry out relevant practical activities according to the suggestions of experts and talents, and take the initiative to adapt to the changes and adapt to the situation. To understand their own expertise, make good use of the existing resources, take the initiative to study and develop rich methods. The masses should also help each other and share their experience, help others when they encounter difficulties, and help others when they encounter setbacks, so as to achieve a better tomorrow together.

3. Comprehensively build a new development pattern

We will make greater efforts to comprehensively promote rural vitalization and build a new pattern of development. Industries and industries promote each other, forming a positive trend of hundred flowers blossoming in various industries. Both rural and individual industries should be paid close attention to and support, and on the basis of raising the overall income and welfare of rural areas, make poverty and prosperity become more prosperous. According to the needs of the industry and the local actual situation, we will increase jobs, help and focus on the people, and do a good job of accurate assistance. Industrial revitalization will drive rural revitalization and poverty alleviation through rural revitalization. To increase income, improve local governance, improve living facilities to enhance rural life happiness, attract migrant workers to return to their hometowns to find jobs and start businesses, and solve the problems of hollowing out villages and empty-nest families. We will guide migrant workers and people from all walks of life to pay attention to the development of their hometown. Within the scope of capacity for the development of hometown as far as possible to provide the help, improve the endogenous power of rural development. Set up "model village", "advanced village", play a model leading role. We will share resources and experience, drive the development of surrounding villages together, gradually normalize effective governance, and continue to promote rural revitalization, the development of various industries, and agricultural and rural modernization.<sup>[2]</sup>

4. Conclusion

Rural vitalization is a major national development strategy. The effective connection between poverty alleviation and rural vitalization is related to the common prosperity of the people and the goal of building China into a great modern socialist country in an all-round way. Poverty alleviation and rural revitalization complement and influence each other and influence each other. To achieve rural revitalization requires industrial revitalization first, and multiple industries go hand in hand, so as to consolidate the achievements of poverty alleviation and reduce the incidence of poverty. Industry can also "feed back" agriculture, promote the realization of agricultural and rural modernization, form rural revitalization into a model of internal and external resources and talents, a model of routine development, and build a new development pattern.
